

Nov 27 2012

Some deeper background articles on regulation

Charlie Beckett

A lengthy report by Nigel Smith from the IPPR about the need for platform-neutral regulations for press outlets in light of new media trends.

Paul Jones, from the University of New South Wales writes in the October 2012 issue of Pacific Journalism Review, “The moment of Leveson: Beyond First amendment fundamentalism in news regulatory policies”

Stephen Coleman, from the University of Leeds writes in the 2012 issue of Television and New Media, “It’s Time for the Public to Reclaim to the Public Interest.”

This entry was posted in Leveson. Bookmark the permalink.